The screenshot shows the Chungbuk National University website. The top navigation bar includes links for Home, Sitemap, Mail, KOREAN, and social media icons. The main menu has links for About CBNU, Admission, Academics, Support Institution, News, and Chungbuk Times. The page title is 'College of Humanities' under the 'Academics' section. A list of departments is displayed, including Korean Language and Literature, English Language and Literature, French Language and Literature, Philosophy, Chinese Language and Literature, German Language and Literature, Russian Language and Literature, History, and Archaeology and Art History. A 'web site' button is highlighted with a red box, and a double-headed arrow points to a contact information box containing 'TEL:+82-43-261-2086, Fax:+82-43-271-1523'. Below this, an 'Introduction' section is visible, starting with the motto 'Literature, history, philosophy and youth are alive.' and describing the college's founding in 1979 and its focus on fostering experts in the humanities.

College of Humanities
Department of Korean Language and Literature
Master's Program /Doctoral Program

Introduction

The Department of Korean Language and Literature trains talented human resources who aim for the world beyond regional culture and national development through education and research on Korean language and writing. With the awareness that professionals who create the future must pursue the universal common good based on communication and empathy skills, and have convergence skills and creativity, we provide necessary curriculums consisting of three areas: education and research on phonology, semantics, syntax, and history of the Korean language in Korean Language Studies; education and research on oral literature, Chinese literature, classic poetry, classic novels, and classic literature history in Classical Literature; and education and research on poetry, novels, criticism, contemporary literature history, and creative education and research in Modern Literature, with the aim of helping students understand and recognize the Korean language, Korean culture, and Korean identity.
